The Presidential Outlook.
A month ago Connecticut and Colorado were put down by almost all Republicans as doubtful States, and by many Democrats they were claimed as absolutely certain for Tilden and Hendricks. We judge that the Democrats will let go their grip on both of them from this time on, and no longer parade them in the electoral list that is to give Mr. Tilden the necessary 185 votes in the Electoral College.

The result in Vermont, Maine, Connecticut and Colorado shows that it is not Mr. Tilden who is not sure of a single Northern State. California has been claimed for him, but we have lately seen a letter from a Wheeling gentleman opposing in that State, that on Democratic authority there, indicates that California will follow Colorado and cast her vote for Hayes and Tilden.

The fact is that the popular mind is deeply stirred up all over this country. The feeling exhibited is not, speaking of the manner of the doctors, endemic but epidemic. It is not a little area of the country that is excited, but the whole North. As it is in the States named so it is everywhere with rare exceptions. Look at the feeling here in Wheeling. Who ever saw, since the days of 1840, such a campaign as we have had this year? It has been an outburst among the people ever since the nominations were made, and has been constantly growing. The canvases the country over has been remarkable, wherever a local election occurred, for the deep popular feeling manifested.

There is therefore every reason to expect the same result in Ohio and Indiana, and especially in Ohio, that we have just witnessed in Colorado. Why should a State like Colorado, that two years ago sent Democratic by 2,663 majority, turn now so radically this year as to give about the same majority for the Republicans, and yet Ohio, that went Republican last year, fail to go Republican this year. Such a result would not be logical. There is logic in politics—the logic of a wide spread distrust throughout this country of the Democracy—a recoil from the idea of putting the government in the hands of those who are now in the control of the lower House of Congress—a pair at the idea of a "Solid South" again assuming its natural control of the Democratic party, and, through that party, of the national government.

The people were inclined two years ago to put the Republican party out of power. They wanted to rebuke some of its short comings. They made the experiment of hanging the popular branch of Congress. The result of the change has satisfied them that the time has not come for such experimentation, and that it would be very unwise indeed to continue the experiment already made any further. Everywhere we have the evidence that there is a great reaction from the experiment of 1874.

The present outlook is that the Republicans will certainly carry the following States in November, viz:

Colorado	2	New Hampshire	5
Connecticut	3	Ohio	22
Illinois	21	Pennsylvania	29
Indiana	11	South Carolina	7
Iowa	7	Tennessee	10
Maine	3	Vermont	3
Massachusetts	11	West Virginia	10
Michigan	11	Wisconsin	10
Minnesota	11	Wyoming	3
Montana	3	Total	167

This leaves only 13 votes for Hayes and Wheeler in order to obtain a majority (185) in the Electoral College, and they have the following doubtful States out of which to gain that number, viz:

California	6	New Jersey	9
Florida	3	New York	35
Georgia	8	North Carolina	8
Alabama	9	South Dakota	3
Mississippi	7	Total	85

Now we do not think, after what has occurred in Vermont, Maine, Connecticut and Colorado, that it requires much of a stretch of the imagination to figure out 18 votes for Hayes out of the above list. For instance, there is California and Indiana, that, of themselves, are quite sufficient, with a good reserve in the shape of New Jersey and New York to fall back on. It is hardly probable that the Mississippi tactics of force and terrorism will be practiced this year again, and if not, there is at least an even chance to carry that State. So that, take it all around, we think the Presidential outlook is decidedly Hayes-y at this writing.

Meeting at Mannington.
The Republicans of Mannington and vicinity have appointed a meeting for next Saturday afternoon at one o'clock. It will be addressed by Major Danc, who will probably also address the Republicans of Cameron on the same evening.

Mr. Howard Carroll, of the New York Times, is in the city stopping at the Grand.

The Greenback Vote in the Third District.

The Sovereign Greenback, a paper published in the Third District of this State, says that there is a decided sentiment for Peter Cooper and "more money" in that district. It talks as if a large vote would be polled for J. M. Laidley, the Greenback candidate for Governor. Mr. Laidley, (who, by the way, is a strong Democrat) is on the stump for his "ticks" and there is no telling at this time how many votes he will receive as the exponent of the "more money and less misery" idea. In estimating his vote it is important to remember that Tilden and hard money are not the choice of the Third District Democracy. Their man was "Old Bill Allen," and their platform was the one represented by General Ewing in the St. Louis Convention. For these the West Virginia delegation voted all the way through. They never voted, nor even at last endorsed, the nominees or platform of the St. Louis Convention.

In some respects there is a decided parallel between the situation of the West Virginia Democracy at this time and their situation in 1872. Horace Greeley was not the man of their choice for the Presidency in 1872 by a long way. The principles adopted at Baltimore by the Convention that nominated Greeley were not their principles. Hence there were no heart whatever in their support of either. And hence they were only too glad to find a good chance to go back on Greeley and the platform on election day, which they did to the extent of over 10,000 votes in the short space of one month. After the success of Horace Greeley in Pennsylvania in the October election of 1872, the West Virginia Democracy retired in disgust from the canvass and surrendered the State, almost without a struggle, to the Republicans.

How far history will repeat itself this year is not yet clear. The news from Vermont, Maine, Connecticut and Colorado is of a character to bring about pretty much the same feeling among the West Virginia Democracy that prevailed after the Pennsylvania election referred to. Now, as at that time, they will be prone to interpret the election news as an omen on the wall that tells of coming defeat all along the line for the Democratic party. This foreboding will be intensified by the additional overwhelming news from Colorado this morning. It is possible that the Third District Democracy may reason, as they did in 1872, that they may as well consult their own private preferences and prejudices, save their self respect, and vote for the men and the principles of their choice, by supporting the Peter Cooper State ticket. If this should be the case, even to the extent of a couple of thousand votes in the State, it may work a very curious change in the political complexion of West Virginia.

REPUBLICAN MEETING AT TRIAD.
PHILADELPHIA LAST NIGHT.—About 300 Republican torch-bearers went out to Triadelphia last evening on a special train, to take part in the parade and meeting at that place. They were joined at the west end of the village by torch-bearers on horseback and in wagons from Liberty district, and also from Haneytown district, and also by a number of the Hayes and Wheeler club of Triadelphia on foot. As the procession formed and marched up the National road, through the town, preceded by the West Alexander band, with various drum corps of the clubs sandwiched in the ranks, it presented a very creditable and imposing appearance, and created great enthusiasm among the crowds that thronged the sidewalks. After the parade about 1,000 persons gathered at the speakers' stand near the school house, and were addressed by Capt. Dovenor and A. W. Campbell.

The excursion would have been a very pleasant affair to the Republicans from Wheeling who took part in it, but for the delay that occurred on the railroad in getting home. The engine that took the train out ran out of sand, and was not equal to the task of pulling the cars up the grade near Mt. De Chantal, and was compelled, after many vain attempts to that end, to come off with only one car attached, and leave the balance of the cars standing on the track until after 1 o'clock this morning, waiting for another engine from the city. Leaving out this unpleasant occurrence the demonstration last night was a grand success. It had its good effect in bringing together a large number of Republicans from the city and county, and letting them see how deep and wide spread was their common interest and enthusiasm for the success of the cause and the ticket next Tuesday, and for the election of Hayes and Wheeler on the 7th of November.

Those who do not relish the swinging of the "bloody shirt" in politics profess not to place any belief in the reports of the progress of the gunboat campaign in the "Solid South," and some are so blinded by prejudice against the slandering of the emancipated rebel that they wouldn't believe a reconstructed rebel could kill a half dozen or more negroes, even if the killing were done before their eyes. The fact seems to be the North has not heard of a tithe of the atrocities perpetrated on the negroes by the White-Liners of the South, in order that the "Solid South" may again rise in Congress by the help of the Northern Democrats. The Washington special correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, under date of October 1st, says:

A number of prominent Southern Republicans who have lately visited this city or communicated with parties here, represent the political condition of the Southern States to be literally deplorable. The White-Liners, they say, are becoming more and more audacious, some of the more daring having declared their intentions to go farther than mere intimidation if necessary to defeat the Republicans at the polls in every Southern State. Most of these gentlemen make complaint that the Southern question is too tamely dealt with by public speakers in the North.

The Republican brethren at Bellaire intend to close the campaign for their State ticket on next Monday with a tremendous demonstration.

Republican Meeting at Martin's Ferry To-Night.

A grand Republican demonstration is to take place at Martin's Ferry, this evening, including a torchlight procession, in which the Hayes and Wheeler Clubs from Wheeling, Beltsville and Steubenville will take part. Peace township is alive and will show it to-night. We hope the weather will be such as to make the demonstration a grand success. We think it will, for Providence seems to be on the side of the Republicans this year, while "the stars in their courses" fight against the Democracy, even as they once did against Siera.

Moundsville Meeting.
The Republican meeting announced at Moundsville for this afternoon, has been postponed until Monday afternoon next, at which time the Republicans of old Marshall expect to have a demonstration worthy of their name and fame in the palmy days of the war.

That section five thousand four hundred and seventy-seven of the Revised Statutes of the United States, limiting the aggregate amount of circulating notes of national banking associations, be, and is hereby repealed; and each existing bank shall be authorized to increase its circulating notes in accordance with existing law without respect to said limit; and the provisions of law for the withdrawal and redistribution of national banking currency among the several States and territories, and for the redemption of such notes, and so forth, as circulating notes shall be issued to any such banking associations, so increasing its capital or circulating notes, or so newly organized as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to redeem the legal tender United States notes in excess of one hundred million dollars, to the amount of eighty per centum of the sum of national bank notes so issued to any such national banking association as aforesaid, and to continue such redemption as such circulating notes are issued, until there shall be outstanding the sum of three hundred million dollars of such legal tender United States notes and no more. D. eighteen hundred and seventy-nine, the Secretary of the Treasury shall redeem in coin the United States legal tender notes then outstanding on their presentation for redemption, at the office of the Assistant Treasurer of the United States in the city of New York in sum of not less than $50. And to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to prepare for the redemption in this act authorized or required, he is authorized to use any surplus revenues from time to time, in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, and to issue, sell and dispose of, at not less than par in coin, either of the descriptions of bonds of the United States described in the act of Congress approved July 1st, 1870, entitled, "An act to authorize the refunding of the National debt," with like qualities, privileges and exemptions necessary to carry this act into full effect, and to use the proceeds thereof for the purposes aforesaid. And all provisions of the law in consistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

County Politics.
HANCOCK COUNTY, October 3, 1876.
Editor Intelligencer:

The prospects for a bountiful Republican harvest up here in the top of the Panhandle are unusually bright. The farmers either that promise but to deceive. In any estimates you may make up, you can count Hancock as good for 200 majority for Goff and the rest of the State ticket.

We also feel confident of electing our regular ticket, something we have not done for a number of years.

Col. Wilson, Democratic candidate for Congress, held a seance with his political affiliates at the Court House one night last week. There were exactly thirty persons, all told, in attendance.

From Marshall County.
MOUNDSVILLE, October 3.
Editors Intelligencer:

With the nearer approach of election day the political sky is clearing away for the brightness of a Republican victory. Old Marshall will return a full Republican delegation to the Legislature this year. Everybody is wide awake and hard at work for the State and county tickets. Men who have not participated in the work of political campaigns for the last ten years have buckled on their armor and are working with a zeal that creates a regular panic in the Democratic ranks. Marshall county has set her stakes for a lively time on Monday night. Prominent speakers will be on hand and we will have a grand torchlight procession. Thirty-seven converts from the Democratic ranks is the result of Col. Wilson's speech. Send him, and not again. You can set Marshall down for five hundred majority for Goff and true reform.

New Fields and Pastures Green.
Editors Intelligencer:

The indications are that B. B. Porter, Col. Ben. J. Boone, Mr. L. S. Newman, Mr. Thompson, and the L. S. Newman, will speak at Haneytown, Lynn Camp, Wolf Run, and other places, with equally eulphonic effect, in Marshall county, in the interest of Matthews and reform, has executed his connection with the campaign in Marshall county in order to enter upon the work of reforming the candidates of his own party in Ohio county. If B. B. is a judge of surface indications, he will find a regular Bonanza of devilish recalcitancy in his own party that will afford him a minatory field for the balance of his natural life. C. U. T.

Gov. Hendricks.
LOUISVILLE, October 4.—An assembly of 12,000 people greeted Gov. Hendricks and others at Sullivan, Indiana, this evening.

The Democrats Advised for their Good.

From the New York Herald.
The Union armies marched over a very considerable part of the Southern States; they camped every night; they cut down a tremendous amount of timber, they burned a good many thousands miles of fence; they quartered themselves in the least uncomfortable places they could find, public and private buildings; they took food and other supplies where they could find them, as is the custom of invading armies. In fact, they lived on the country, as was their proper right, because the folly of the people had made it for the time an enemy's country. Now a considerable number of those who were thus forced to entertain and supply our armies have left the hope that they may get damages out of the government. Of course, they are mistaken; they will never get a dollar, because the American people are not a set of idiots. But it is a question which the Democrats had better get out of the way, now that it is raised. The fact that at the last session of Congress some bills unsuspiciously looked toward the payment of such claims were introduced by Democrats in the House, and they were not rejected but quickly laid over to the next session, gives the matter a practical importance; and we advise the Democrats to say at once, publicly and positively, that they will not pay a cent.

ARTIST OF TWO'S PARTIES.
CHICAGO, October 4.—E. A. Woodard, the late partner of Wm. M. Tweed, for whom a large reward has been offered in New York, was arrested here this afternoon at the Palmer House, where he was registered as A. Wallace, of Liverpool. He was disguised, but was recognized by New York gentlemen and pointed out to the police. He was locked up at Central station, where he will be retained until further steps are taken by the New York authorities. He was very uncommunicative to the reporters, but said to Police Superintendent Hookey that he had just arrived from England by way of Savannah, and he had not seen Tweed for six years. A man registered as J. H. Blonodt was with him at the time of his arrest, and remains with him at the station by permission.

He was taken to a local station house and stimulated for some time, but he was too far gone to be restored and died in half an hour. He was evidently a foreigner and in search of work. His name was Charles Miller, and had recently been at work somewhere in Minnesota. He was about 40 years of age.

Barbour Lewis, ex-Congressman and ex-Governor of Tennessee, in a letter addressed by him in this city to-day to the chairman of the Memphis Republican Convention, declined the nomination for Congress, tendered him by the Republicans of the Tenth District of that State. He bases the refusal upon his belief that success can be better obtained through the nomination of some old whig.

The College opens with the brightest prospects for its future success. It has now a large class of students.

Hill, convicted in the United States Circuit Court of Indiana, on the 1st of February last, of conspiring to defraud the revenue by aiding and abetting the removal of a distilled spirit, and sentenced to two and a half years imprisonment and to pay a fine of $200.
